Labelling the environment

Symbols can be used as visual reinforcement or in support of conventional forms of communication. The symbols can be linked to the object or event that they represent or can be more abstract. There are a number of symbol systems available from commercial and other sources. What ever method adopted it is important that the learner recognises the assumed meaning of the symbols selected.

… the environment can be labelled in many ways.

For more information see pri-liberator
Makaton graphics used with permission from The Makaton Charity